

Hunterdon County Historical Society Spring Programs

Sunday, March 10, 2019

2:00 p.m.

Spring Membership Meeting and Lecture

“A Proud Heritage”

Presbyterian Church, 10 East Main Street

Join speakers Beverly Mills and Elaine Buck, authors of “If These Stones Could Talk” published in 2018. The authors uncovered a rich and amazing history that was almost lost to time-- the story of slavery and the African American presence in this region of New Jersey. Signed books will be for sale and refreshments will be served. No registration required, free.

On “If these Stones Could Talk”:

“...Part genealogy, part history, and part personal memoir, rooted in an amazing amount of research, and written with grace and flair, this book brings to light a rich past that had almost been lost.”

— James M. McPherson, author of Battle Cry of Freedom: The Civil War Era

“Collections Care Tips and Tricks”

for organizations with archival collections in Hunterdon County

This workshop will discuss the basics of archival care and includes demonstrations of “tips and tricks” for small institutions with limited resources to help improve the level of collections care. Held at the HCHS state-of-the-art Archive building, 67 River Road Raritan Township, and presented by manuscript curator Don Cornelius, this workshop is open to attendees from Hunterdon County repositories first. If spots are available, it will open to neighboring counties after April 12. Registration is required by phone or email, $5.00 fee per person.
